Betty Puceta

The secretaries for Maryland Basketball are Betty Puceta and Jane Schmidt. They have more than a full time job keeping track of Lefty's complex program but they are always more than willing to help members of the press contact Maryland coaches or players. Please feel free to call them at (301) 454-2126 or 454-4112.

HEAD BASKETBALL COACH
LEFTY DRIESELL

When Lefty Driesell arrived in College Park, he promised three things for Maryland's basketball future; national recognition, national ranking and a national championship. In his third year at Maryland two of those three are already realities as Lefty continues to transform the Terrapin basketball program from mediocre to meteoric.

Lefty's record of 27-5 and a National Invitational Tournament championship is the best single season record ever compiled by a coach in his first three years at an Atlantic Coast Conference institution.

There can be little doubt of the national recognition the Terrapins received during last year's super season and Maryland finished as high as sixth in national rankings.

Now only the national championship remains unaccomplished and, judging from 1972-73 pre-season rankings which consistently place Maryland in the top ten, the nation's basketball media consider the Terrapins a strong contender for the year end crown.

Interest in Lefty's brand of basketball continues at a fever pitch. When he came to the campus in 1969 he warned Maryland fans that they had better get their tickets while they could or they would be sitting at home listening to the games on radio and TV.

In three years that warning has also become a reality. Last season, the Terrapins played to an average crowd of 13,166 at home with six of the games being complete sellouts. Maryland didn't disappoint their fans as they compiled a perfect 14-0 record. There is little left in Driesell's program to remind Maryland fans of the pre-Lefty program which had failed to produce a winning record in six of the eight years before Lefty's arrival.

Everything from the playing floor at Cole Field House, the locker room facilities and the player living facilities to the number of fans in the stands and points on the scoreboard has been completely rennovated.

A tireless worker, the 41 year old Driesell puts in an 18 hour day to see that his program is second to none.

One of the secrets of Driesell's success has been his choice of assistants. Every assistant that Driesell has had in 12 years of collegiate coaching has gone on to a head coaching position.

Driesell is also a more than effective recruiter. He began his college coaching career at Davidson by spending the night in his car and eating peanut butter crackers while recruiting the players which led the Wildcats to national prominence.

His recruiting duties are reduced in the current Maryland program but he has still been the major factor in building the Terrapins' current lineup of talent.

His first recruiting class included varsity players Jim O'Brien, Howard White, Bob Bodell and Darrell Brown. The second team was the super-frosh which included Tom McMillen, Len Elmore, Jap Trimble and Rich Porac. That team went on to compile a 16-0 record and ranking as the number one freshman team in the nation.

Last year's freshmen, Tom Roy, Owen Brown, Varick Cutler, Donald White and Bill Hahn, recorded a 12-4 mark and all five are expected to be effective members of the varsity this season.

This year Lefty has added two blue-chip freshman guard prospects in Philadelphia Player-of-the-Year Maurice Howard and All-American John Lucas from Durham, N.C.

This amazing four year record of recruiting has given Maryland one of the deepest teams in talent in the nation, and the source of the recruiting success has been the magnetism of the Driesell name.

Driesell has become one of the most successful coaches in the nation through 17 years of outstanding coaching experience.

His coaching career began at Granby High where he served for two years before moving to Newport News. In four years of high school coaching, he compiled a 97-15 record.

Moving to Davidson in 1960, Lefty transformed a previously dormant program into one of the most successful in the nation. He compiled a 176-65 record in nine years with the Wildcats and had four teams which were ranked in the top ten. He was named Southern Conference Coach of the Year for four successive years from 1963-66, an unmatched honor.

But, for all his earlier accomplishments, 1971-72 must be considered his greatest season.

The Terrapins finished the season as the most improved team in the nation. They were one of two teams in the United States to beat every opponent on its schedule at least once.

The Terps' 27-5 record was the best in the history of the school and their victory total was second only to national champion UCLA.

Always a stickler for proper execution, Lefty fielded a team which was the tenth best defensively in the nation and set an ACC record with a .746 free throw percentage.

All of this was accomplished in the more than rugged ACC and against what was judged as the tenth toughest schedule in the nation, tougher than any eventual member of the top 20.

This year the schedule will be even more demanding. In addition to road games against an even stronger ACC lineup, the Terrapins must play Duquesne, Fordham, Canisius, Richmond, and area rivals Navy and Georgetown; all on the road.

Driesell will again stress a hustling defense and a balanced offense as the keys to success. The five-way offensive threat was one of the keys to last year's success. On one night it would be Tom McMillen or Len Elmore doing the scoring inside. On another it would be Bob Bodell or Jim O'Brien hitting from the outside which brought a Maryland win. Driesell will stress this kind of balance and the results should be even better with the added outside shooting of the two freshmen.

Lefty was born in Norfolk, Va., on December 25, 1931. He is a 1954 graduate of Duke University. He and his wife Joyce have four children, Pattie 16, Pam 12, Chuck 10, and Carolyn 18 months.

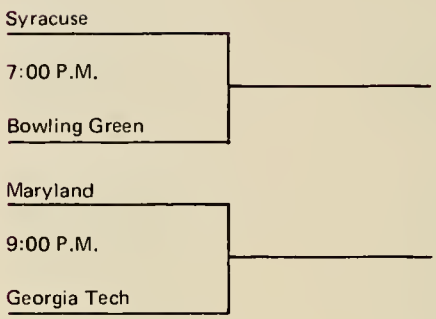
MARYLAND INVITATIONAL TOURNAMENT

Dec. 29-30, 1972



Only in its second year of existence, the Maryland Invitational Tournament is already one of the bright spots on the holiday basketball schedule.

The 1971 inaugural was everything that area sports fans had hoped for. The host Terrapins played perhaps their best basketball of the year winning the championship from New York power St. John's University. Harvard, one of the top squads in the Ivy League, edged out Western Kentucky for the third slot.

This year's tournament should be even better. The NIT champion Terrapins must be the pre-tournament pick to defend their championship but the competition will be stiff.

Syracuse is a close second choice. The Orangemen have a talented, experienced squad and came within six points of defeating Maryland in the quarterfinals of the NIT last season.

Georgia Tech went through a rebuilding year in '71-'72 after losing superstar Rich Yunkus. The Yellow Jackets fielded a youthful team which made mistakes that cost ballgames. Tech can't be counted on to beat themselves this year and after a season of playing largely against tough Southeastern Conference foes behind them, coach Whack Hyder's charges should be ready to make their move in 1972.

In Bowling Green, the tournament boasts a rising Mid-America Conference power which bills itself as the Maryland of the Midwest. Coach Pat Haley has set a timetable for the development of his team and that timetable calls for his team to have a winning season this year and challenge for the MAC title. This is a young, talented team which plays a wide-open exciting brand of basketball and the Falcons should be a treat for all basketball fans.

The stage is set for a real donnybrook in Cole Field House complete with all the thrills and excitement which make up college basketball.

DID YOU KNOW?

The University of Maryland is composed of four campuses: University of Maryland Baltimore County, University of Maryland Eastern Shore, University of Maryland College Park, and University College, also located in College Park. The College Park campus is the largest of the four while University College directs the University's worldwide educational network.

The University chapel, the focal point of the College Park campus, is located only nine miles from the United States Capitol.

The University of Maryland has won the Carmichael Cup, signifying overall athletic supremacy in the Atlantic Coast Conference, for seven of the last ten years.

The University fields athletic teams in 13 men's sports and several women's sports.

Maryland employs more than 7000 faculty and staff personnel.

The origins of the University can be traced to 1807.

Scholarship aid for last year exceeded $2.5 million and aided almost 5500 students.

Current building programs will double the facilities of the University library and the school of Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

There are 193 major buildings on the College Park Campus.

More than 7000 degrees will be granted in 1972-73.

The operating budget for the College Park campus in 1972-73 exceeds $100,000,000. For the entire University, the budget exceeds $200,000,000.

Membership in Maryland's supporters club, the Terrapin Club, has risen 100% in the last two years. In that same period, contributions to the Maryland Educational Foundation has grown by 500%.

Football coach Jerry Claiborne has helped lead five different schools to bowl appearances.

The 1971-72 Maryland basketball team was one of only two teams in the nation to beat every team on its schedule at least once.

The University has won individual or team national championships in six sports, ranked in the top ten in 10 and participated in the NCAA championship tourney in yet another.

Every assistant coach that Lefty Driesell has had at Davidson and Maryland has become a head coach:

- Warren Mitchell—William and Mary
- Gail Conboy—Cincinnati
- Terry Holland—Davidson (player and assistant coach)
- Jerry Catlett—Point Park
- George Raveling—Washington State

Every player whom Lefty Driesell has recruited has played on a team ranked in the top ten at some time during his undergraduate career.

Of the players listed on the Maryland Basketball and Football rosters for the 1972-73 season, 65 served as team captains during their high school careers.

The Newspapers which regularly cover Maryland athletics have a combined circulation of over 5.4 million readers. In addition to Newspapers, seven television and 28 radio stations also feature Maryland sports.

A total of almost 100,000 students attend the various University campuses and divisions.

University of Maryland

The University of Maryland is a land-grant institution of higher learning stressing programs of excellence in teaching, research and service.

In 1807 a College of Medicine was established in Baltimore, Maryland, granting the M.D. degree. The school changed its name to the University of Maryland in 1812 and was given power to confer other degrees.

The University expanded its professional schools with a School of Dentistry, Pharmacy, Law, and Nursing.

The College Park campus of the University was opened in 1859 as the Maryland Agricultural College under a charter secured in 1856 by a group of Maryland planters. However, the College suffered a disastrous fire in 1912 and the State acquired control of the school, taking care of rebuilding costs. In 1920 the State took over the old College of Medicine in Baltimore forming the presentday University of Maryland.

In 1866 the Delaware Conference Academy was founded by the Methodist Church in Princess Anne, Maryland. This academy went under State control in 1926 and became a division of the University of Maryland in 1948. This unit was called Maryland State College, and operated autonomously under its own president until July 1, 1970, when it became a branch of the University, known as the University of Maryland, Eastern Shore.

Now 166 years old, the University is one of the 10 largest schools in the nation. Over 100,000 students attend classes throughout the State and in 24 foreign countries. The teaching and research staff includes more than 7,000 personnel.

The University offers baccalaureate programs in 103 fields. In addition master's degrees are offered in 60 departments. Maryland ranks 28th in productivity among the 227 institutions granting doctoral degrees.

The College Park campus is the main undergraduate campus and is the location for the Colleges of Agriculture, Arts and Sciences, Business and Public Administration, Education, Engineering, Home Economics, and Physical Education, Recreation and Health. College Park is also the home of the School of Architecture and Library and Institutional Services. At the Baltimore campus are the professional schools, the Psychiatric Institute and the University Hospital. In 1966 a third campus was opened just west of Baltimore City, the University of Maryland, Baltimore County (UMBC).

More than a million volumes are on the shelves of the University libraries, plus one-half million microfilms, slides, film strips and recordings. The University is a regional depository for Federal documents. Special collections include the Marylandia, Katherine Anne Porter, Rare Book, East Asian and Health Sciences Historical Collections.

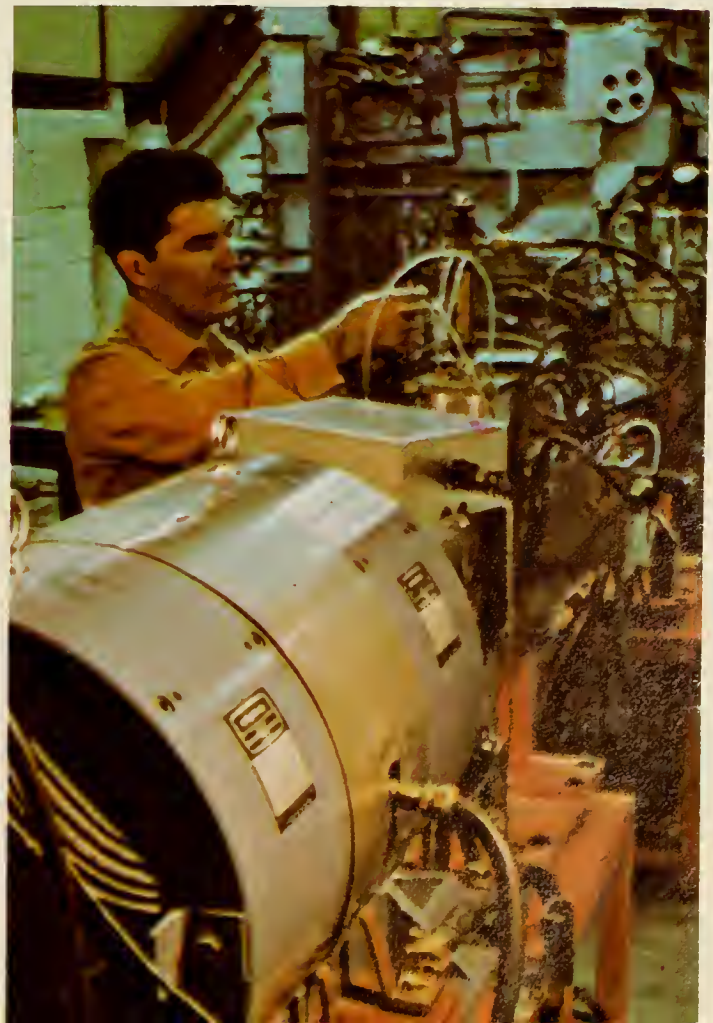
Maryland spends over 21 million dollars a year on research. Research facilities include the Institute of Child Study, the National Resources Institute, Van de Graaff accelerators, a five story computer building, a nuclear reactor and collaborative arrangements with many nearby government installations. The University houses the world's largest sectored isochronous Cyclotron and owns the world's longest radio telescope.

In addition, Maryland is a member of the initial group of 34 universities incorporated to manage a 200 BeV high energy accelerator at Weston, Illinois.

In 1969 the Association of American Universities elected the University to its selective membership. The 1969-1970 school year saw eight students selected as Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship scholars.

The University has alumni from every state in the United States and from several foreign countries. The Governor of Maryland, Marvin Mandel, and U.S. Senator Charles Mathias are graduates of the University.

In research, scholarship and in the number and quality of its graduates, the University takes great pride in being one of the country's finest institutions of higher education.



ACCESSIBILITY

The University of Maryland is extremely convenient to all forms of transportation.

Typical road routes include:

Western Maryland, West Virginia and western Pennsylvania—
Route 40 to Route 70S to Route 495E

Western Virginia—Route 29 to Route 66 to Route 495N

Director of Athletics

Jim Kehoe

"Winning isn't everything. It's the only thing. This was my philosophy as a competitor, as a coach, and now as an athletic director." The words have a familiar ring if you know Jim Kehoe, Athletic Director for the University of Maryland.

The Athletic Department at the University of Maryland has followed new directions and achieved new dimensions under the leadership of Athletic Director James M. Kehoe.

Coach Kehoe is certainly experienced in athletic success. A four sport star for Bel Air High School, he was undefeated in dual meet track competition while at Maryland, setting two individual records and was a member of three championship of America Penn Relay teams.

As track coach at the University, coach Kehoe continued his remarkable winning record. In 23 years his teams won 47 Southern and Atlantic Coast Conference championships. When appointed Athletic Director his teams had won 15 consecutive indoor and outdoor A.C.C. titles.

This experience in winning has led to one of Maryland's new directions, a return to prominence in all sports and especially in basketball and football. The basketball strides made by Lefty Driesell, Kehoe's first recruit as director, are evident and under Jerry Claiborne, similar success in football is inevitable.

But winning isn't the only characteristic of a Kehoe led program. While serving as track coach, Kehoe was also an Associate Professor of Physical Education and directed one of the largest and most successful intramural programs in the country. During his undergraduate days he was elected president of the Men's League and to Omicron Delta Kappa, the men's national honorary fraternity.

With this type of academic background the phrase student-athlete has truly become applicable to the men who wear Maryland's colors. Every athlete who is recruited for Maryland attends the University with the Department's pledge that it will do everything in its power to aid him in attaining his bachelor's degree and the broad educational background necessary to be successful in today's society.

More than anything, coach Kehoe is a believer in the positive effect athletics can have on today's society. He is committed to the fact that offering the members of that society a program where success is achieved through disciplined hard work and unified effort with which they can identify is of the utmost importance. This has always been one of the important benefits to the athletes themselves, but in this often turbulent society the importance goes beyond the teams and even beyond the university community.

Coach Kehoe is married to the former Barbara Riggs England, a Maryland graduate. They are the parents of four children: Courtney Ann, Barbara Sue, Mary Lou and Jim. Courtney Ann and Jim are graduates of the University.

DR. WILSON H. ELKINS
PRESIDENT
UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND

The twenty-first president of the University of Maryland, Dr. Wilson H. Elkins, is serving his nineteenth year in that office. He came to Maryland in September of 1954 from Texas Western College (now the University of Texas at El Paso). He previously had served as President of San Angelo Junior College.

He holds B.A. and M.A. degrees from the University of Texas where, as an undergraduate, he earned eight varsity letters in football, basketball and track. His B.Litt. and Ph.D. degrees are from Oxford University where he studied as a Rhodes Scholar.

President Elkins' administration at Maryland has been marked by great growth and strengthening of academic standards. Faced with skyrocketing student enrollment, the University, under his leadership, has consistently sought to provide quality education for an increasing number of students.

Dr. Elkins is a member of the Southern Regional Education Board. He is past president of the National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges, the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, and the Southern University Conference.

DR. CHARLES EDWIN BISHOP
CHANCELLOR COLLEGE PARK CAMPUS

Charles E. Bishop, the first Chancellor of the College Park Campus, came to the University of Maryland in 1970 from the University of North Carolina, where he served as Vice President.

He took his bachelor of science degree at Berea College, Kentucky, his master of science at the University of Kentucky and his doctor of philosophy in economics at the University of Chicago.

During his two years as the Campus' chief executive officer, Dr. Bishop and his administration have encouraged and helped to bring about a series of forward-look changes in the life and government of the Campus, which is one of the largest in the United States. The most notable of these changes is the major academic reorganization now underway at College Park. The new plan of organization involves a modernization of the whole Campus structure, and is helping to make the University of Maryland at College Park one of the most progressive universities in the country. Most important, it will provide every student and faculty member with expanded educational opportunities.

Dr. Bishop is regarded as a humanitarian who relates easily to students, staff and faculty alike. He has earned the respect of the Campus community for his openness, his willingness to communicate and his forthright nature. In private chats and on the speaker's stand his messages have the same aim: to encourage improvements which will enable the College Park Campus to serve more effectively the needs of the people of the State and Nation.

ALFRED J. HANLON
ASSISTANT DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS

Alfred J. Hanlon is concerned primarily with scheduling, team travel, personnel policies and general office administration. He has been with the Athletic Department since 1969, when he retired from the U.S. Air Force with the rank of colonel after directing the Maryland AFROTC program for two years.

A rated command pilot, Hanlon commanded a heavy bomber squadron in England and North Africa during World War II. He has served in a wide variety of command and staff positions since that time. His military decorations include the Legion of Merit, the Air Medal with two oak leaf clusters, the Air Force Commendation Medal and the Presidential Unit Citation Badge.

Hanlon is a native of Boston and a 1939 graduate of Harvard University, where he was a varsity letterman in track. He is married to the former Barbara Foster of Boston, and they have three grown children, Christopher, Brenda and Mark.

Dr. John E. Faber (Faculty Chairman of Athletics)
Dr. John W. Churchill (Assoc. Prof. of Recreation)
Dr. John M. Dennis (Head, Radiology, Balt.)
Dr. Robert M. Ragan (Head, Dept. of Civil Engineering)
Dr. Norman C. Laffer (Prof., Arts and Sciences)
Dr. Richard F. Davis (Prof. and Head, Dairy Science)
Mr. John A. Heise (President Alumni Association)
Mr. Howard T. Carolan (President, SGA)

DR. JOHN E. FABER
Chairman, The Athletic Council

First appointed to the athletic council in 1951, Dr. John Faber has served as its chairman since 1963. Dr. Faber is the University's representative to the Atlantic Coast Conference, of which he was president during the 1969-70 year.

For 36 years Dr. Faber served as lacrosse coach at the University. During that time the accomplishments of his teams secured a place for him as one of the greatest names in Maryland athletic history. He won 276 games suffering only 75 losses with two ties. Five times his Terps were undisputed national champions and two other time they shared that honor with another school.

A professor in the microbiology department, the University is fortunate to have such a man as its Faculty Chairman of Athletics.

	GAMES	FGM	FGA	PCT	FTM	FTA	PCT	REBS	PF-DSQ	PTS	AVG
Freshman	16	103	168	.613	41	62	.661	102	43-1	247	15.4
Sophomore	26	40	83	.482	43	71	.606	66	42-1	123	4.7
Junior	32	70	117	.598	64	85	.753	82	55-2	204	6.4

Bob's reputation is built on his ability as a defensive player. He was voted as the team's top defender last season and always drew the opposition's top scoring threat as his assignment. This reputation is well deserved. His hustle on defense and his unselfish play made him the fifth leading rebounder and third leading assist man during '71-'72. But observers tend to overlook Bob's offensive credentials. He was also the team's most accurate shooter last year as he hit on 59.8 percent of his shots. He hit 15 first half points against Niagara in the final of the NIT to lead the Terrapins to a 100-69 romp. His 19 points in that game were his season high. Seeing limited action as a sophomore he hit 10 points against Miami and N.C. State. He hit 11 of 13 shots against Kings College as a freshman and averaged 15.4 points, hitting 61 percent of his attempts from the floor. A four sport athlete in high school, Bob was MVP in basketball and a quarterback in football. Although Lefty Driesell will be counting heavily on Bob's defensive ability this year, he will also be counting on him for points in crucial situations.

Junior	31	52	107	.486	25	38	.658	84	41-1	129	4.2

Always one of the best athletes on the team, Darrell improved his fundamentals last season to become one of Maryland's most dependable players. The team's fourth leading rebounder, he hit on 49 percent of his field goals and 66 percent of his free throws. His best game was against Virginia in the regular season finale as he scored 14 points and pulled down 12 rebounds to lead the team to a 45-42 win. His best game as a sophomore was 24 points and 10 rebounds against George Washington. His sophomore performance was an encore to his freshman game when he scored 26 points and pulled down 18 rebounds against the Colonials. Darrell has a 104 inch reach and his jumping ability makes him one of Maryland's top rebounders. He was a three sport star and MVP in basketball in high school. He was a frequent starter last year and is expected to see extensive action at both wing and post positions this year. If he continues to improve as he did last season (he was voted the team's most improved player) he is considered by Lefty Driesell as a legitimate pro prospect.

Owen Brown is a solid performer who can deliver a clutch performance either on the wing or at the low post. In his freshman year he led the squad in scoring with 341 points for a 21.3 average. He also led the squad in field goal accuracy (57 percent). He finished second in rebounding grabbing 11.8 per game. He is possessed of exceptional speed, quickness and ball handling ability for a man of his size. He is a good shot blocker. Perhaps his best game last season was against Mercer CC when he hit 13 of 15 shots from the floor. He scored over 1500 points in his high school career with a high game of 42. He was selected player of the year in Illinois. A National Honor Society member and a potential Rhodes scholar, Owen narrowed his choice of colleges to Yale, Stanford, Davidson and Maryland from more than 250 scholarship offers. His uncle is Deputy Chief of Police for Washington, D.C., and his mother is the Producer-Director for Educational Television in the city of Chicago. He wants to enter criminal law. He is expected to see some starting service this year.

Even with a slow start in 1971-72 Varick became one of the top offensive threats for last year's freshmen. He finished with 243 points for a 15.2 average hitting on 49 percent of his shots. His best game was against Lehigh when he scored 22 points and pulled down 17 rebounds. He finished as the third leading rebounder. He was a high school All-American and was twice an all New York selection. He scored over 1200 points and averaged over 23 ppg. His high game was 38 points and he averaged 28 points as a senior. During his senior year he shot 58 percent from the floor and 80 percent from the line. Over 200 colleges expressed interest in the talented lefthander. He is a good ball handler and jumper with excellent speed who works hard on defense. Possessed of a warm personality, Varick enjoys working with people and would like to become a criminal psychologist after graduation. He is a member of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

Len is a tremendous athlete who makes great contributions on and off the court. He was the co-recipient of the team MVP award last year as he averaged 11 points and 11 rebounds a game for the Terrapins. His best game was against Duquesne when he scored 27 points and captured 17 rebounds. He also got 17 rebounds against Syracuse in the NIT quarterfinals. He was the leading rebounder in 22 of Maryland's 32 games. He is an exceptional defensive player and shot blocker, but also is an efficient scorer having hit on 46 percent of his field goals and 75 percent of his free throws. He saw limited action as a freshman but he was the team MVP and selected as one of the "Ten Top High School Scholar-Athletes" in America by Coach and Athlete Magazine while playing for Jack Kuhnert at Power Memorial. He was a National Honor Society member and qualified for New York State Regents and National Merit scholarships in high school and is currently active in the N.Y. Police Athletic League and the University's PACE community action group. He is a pre-law major and was Sport Magazine's athlete of the month in August.

Bill Hahn proved during his freshman year that he is more than capable of handling the difficult point position in Lefty Driesell's game plan. An efficient shooter who connected on 49 percent of his field goals and 77 percent of his free throws, Bill is usually more inclined to run the offense and hand out assists. He finished his first year with a total of 116 assists. He still averaged 9.1 points per game. He served as captain of his high school team for two seasons and set the school scoring record with 46 points in one game. He was the president of the student council and a member of the National Honor Society. He served as Hoosier Boys State Representative. He also played baseball and ran cross country in high school. A very strong math student, Bill hopes to teach and coach after graduation. An exceptional free throw shooter, Bill is extremely quick and has an uncanny ability to hit the open man. He plays the hard nosed type of defense which Lefty Driesell must get from his point man. He is the first Maryland player from basketball rich Indiana.

MAURICE HOWARD

6-2, 170, 19, Freshman
Philadelphia, Pennsylvania

REACH: 97 inches

Maurice Howard is an exceptional ball handler who is expected to see considerable action this year at the wing position. He is an accurate shooter from up to 20 feet, but he has the speed and moves to penetrate effectively. He has good court sense and is effective at hitting the open man. He was selected as Philadelphia area player-of-the-year for 1971-72 while playing for St. Joseph's Prep. He led St. Joseph's in scoring for the past two years with a 21.5 average and was a three year all-city selection. He received both the Herb Good Catholic League Player-of-the-year award and the Markward Outstanding Player Award. He was honored by his Pennsylvania teammates in the Dapper Dan game by being selected as team captain. He was chosen as a high school All-American by both Parade Magazine and Scholastic Coach. He is described by Jim Maloney who recruited Howard for Maryland as one of the finest guard prospects in last year's graduating class.

JOHN LUCAS

6-4, 175, 18, Freshman
Durham, North Carolina

REACH: 96 inches

John Lucas is a tremendous athlete who is expected to be a great asset to the Terrapins at the point position this season. He is described by Lefty Driesell as a tremendous competitor, a winner, and a money ball player. He has amazing quickness and is an outstanding passer, defensive player and a great shooter. He has the uncanny ability to get off a shot with two or three men around him. During his senior year at Durham's Hillside High School he averaged 34.5 ppg hitting on 55.7 percent of his field goals and 79.9 percent of his free throws. He broke Pete Maravich's North Carolina scoring record. He averaged 26 and 20 ppg in his junior and sophomore years respectively. John was contacted by 401 colleges and narrowed his choice to seven before choosing Maryland. Besides his basketball accomplishments, John is a member of the junior Davis Cup tennis team and was rated as one of the top scholastic players in the nation. John was an honor roll student in high school. He scored 31 points in this year's North Carolina All-Star game.

Tom McMillen is an athlete whose talents definitely include, but are not limited to, basketball. Of the 20 individual game and season highs last year, Tom held 15 and set 10 new Maryland records. He is now the all time season scorer with 667 points. He was the top scorer 23 times and top rebounder nine times. His top game was against Canisius when he scored 33 points and grabbed 19 rebounds. As a freshman he scored 48 points against Georgetown and pulled down 31 rebounds against West Virginia. He was an All-American and named National Scholar Athlete by the National Education Association while in high school. He is the all time Pennsylvania scoring leader. He was the first high school player to have his jersey retired to the basketball hall of fame. He is a member of the President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports and served as the regional director of the Alsac charity drive. He was a member of the 1972 United States Olympic Basketball Team. He received only one B in four years of high school and is currently an A student in pre-med at the University. On and off the court, Tom is more than a credit to Maryland basketball.

Jim has been a dependable scorer for Maryland for the last two seasons. He led the team in scoring as a sophomore (16.3 ppg) and finished second last year (12.3). He is already a member of Maryland's top 20 all time scorers. He will probably always be remembered for his last second field goal against then second ranked South Carolina which gave Maryland the victory during his sophomore year. Last year his season high was 20 points against St. Johns. He averaged nearly 14 ppg in tournament play last season. His sophomore high was 25 against Duke and as a freshman he averaged 31.4 ppg hitting 40 against George Washington. He was an All-American at Jeb Stuart high school. He is an excellent ball handler for his size and finished as the third leading rebounder and second leading assist man on last year's squad. He was the leading scorer four times last year and the leading rebounder twice. He was troubled by a bleeding ulcer as a sophomore but put on weight before last season and has had no recurrence of the problem. He is considered a definite pro prospect.

Although Rich saw limited action during the 1971-72 campaign, he did get into 29 ballgames and recorded 66 assists. An excellent ball handler and defensive player at the point position, his season high was 12 points in Maryland's nine point win over Canisius. As a freshman he averaged 11.6 points and 11 assists a game and set a Maryland freshman record with 19 assists against Virginia. He was a 52 percent shooter from the floor as a freshman and hit 78 percent of his free throws last year finishing as the third best free throw shooter on the squad. He is expected to challenge for the starting slot at the point this year. A National Honor student, Rich captained his high school team to a 19-3 record and league championship, scoring 18 points a game. He scored 950 points at Gateway where he played for Art Betts. He plays the accordion, sings in the choir and likes to work on the trampoline. He is a Pre-Dentistry major.

Tom Roy came to Maryland as perhaps the most sought after high school player of his class. He didn't disappoint in his freshman season. He was the second leading scorer for the frosh scoring 266 points for a 16.6 ppg average. He was the leading rebounder with 203 for a 12.7 average. He hit 52 percent from the floor and showed the physical capabilities and natural talent to be a potent force inside for the Terrapins. His high game was 37 points against Villanova and his high rebound production was 25 against Georgetown. He scored 20 or more points five times and pulled down at least 10 rebounds ten times. He was Parade Magazine Player-of-the-Year in high school and is the all time New England scoring leader with 2501 points for his career. His high was 60 points (26 of 28 from the floor and eight of 11 from the line). A four year team captain, he led his school to two state championships. He was voted on the All-American Academic Cum Laude team. Tom would like a career in professional basketball. He is expected to be a frequent starter for the Terrapins this year.

Perhaps the most pleasant surprise for last year's freshman was the play of Pittsburgh native Donald White. An excellent jump shooter who came to Maryland with a reputation as an offensive player he surprised the coaching staff with solid defensive play and great ball handling ability. Offensively he hit for 16.6 ppg connecting on 48 percent of his shots from the floor. His high game was 27 points against PHIBLANT. He was an honorable mention All-American, an All-State selection and the outstanding scholar athlete of the school while playing at Penn Hall Academy. He averaged 24 points per game and had a high of 47 while amassing a total of 1644 points. He was chosen as the MVP of the Dapper Dan All Star game. A good leaper, Don has catlike quickness, good range and a quick release. A fashion conscious dresser, Donald graduated seventh in his class and plans a career in social work after graduation. He is expected to see considerable action at a wing position this year.

Howard has excelled for two years as the starting point man for Lefty Driesell. A fine shooter and hard working defensive player, he led last year's team with 93 assists. His high point production last year was 26 against Brown in the season opener. He scored 38 points against South Carolina in Columbia as a sophomore and followed that with 33 against Georgetown. His high as a freshman was 34 against George Washington. He was an All-American at Hampton's Kecoughtan High and was MVP and captain of the team. A surprisingly good jumper, Howard pulled down six rebounds against Western Kentucky last season. Howard is troubled with a knee injury which he received in high school and underwent pre-season surgery. He has been able to play with the injury before, however, and a healthy Howard White is a major scoring threat especially in one-on-one situations. Despite his knee he is expected to play a major role in Maryland's success this year. His ability to perform in the clutch was shown by his 10 plus ppg average in post season tournament play last year.

ASSISTANT COACHES

JIM MALONEY

Jim is a winner, and has the record to prove it. His six-year record for high school and college prior to coming to Maryland was an amazing 126-47. His 1965 Lockport, N.Y. High School team posted a brilliant 20-1 ledger and won the Niagara Frontier and Western New York Championship (the first championship in school history).

Niagara University beckoned the Philadelphia, Pa. native, and Maloney responded by taking the Purple Eagles to a winning season. Just a year before Maloney arrived, Niagara had posted a dismal 4-21 slate.

A star guard for the Purple Eagles in his playing days, Jim finished as the eighth highest scorer in Niagara history, and served as co-captain of the team his senior year.

A shooting whiz in college, Jim now teaches the Terp players the finer points of offense. He recruited and coached all-time college great Calvin Murphy for Niagara.

A man on the move 365 days a year, Jim is a master recruiter. Coach Driesell says of Maloney: "Jim is one of the finest recruiters in the nation. He's a tireless worker, and his knowledge of the game is tremendous. I never hesitate to ask his advice on certain strategy or techniques."

Active in the Fellowship of Christian Athletes and the CYO, Jim is a devoted family man. Married to the former Barbara Ann Marrone, the Maloneys are the parents of four children: Peter (9), Paul (7), Sarah (5), and Chris (4).

"My goal is for Maryland to win the National Championship. I try to recruit the type of individual who possesses the qualities of greatness—he must be dedicated both on the court and in the classroom.

Attitude and teamwork are so important. I don't want to coach selfish players. I feel championship teams are molded by young men who want to be winners in life as well as on the basketball court.

I love my work—both recruiting and coaching. One of the reasons I came to Maryland was to accept the challenge here. I respect both Coach Driesell and Athletic Director Jim Kehoe. Both men are dedicated in their ambitions to make Maryland number one.

Coach Driesell demands a lot, but he also commands the respect of our staff and the team. We're a cohesive, compatible staff with one goal—to make Maryland number one!"

JOE HARRINGTON

The youngest member of the Maryland coaching staff at 26, Joe Harrington has already put together impressive coaching credentials. As the head coach of last year's freshman team, he guided the Terrapins to a 12-4 record which included a win over the highly regarded George Washington frosh. He feels this year's sophomores will add a great deal to making this year's varsity one of the strongest teams in the nation.

A fundamentally sound player when he performed for Maryland in 1965-67, he also serves as organizer and coordinator of the Maryland Summer Basketball School for young players.

In addition to his on-court duties he is charged with all phases of the basketball department academic guidance program. He is especially proud of the fine grade point average maintained by the Maryland players.

The only Maryland graduate on the staff, Harrington is also a member of the Department of Physical Education where he serves as assistant Director of Intramurals. He will receive his Master's degree in P.E. this year.

Coach Driesell says of Harrington, "Joe is a fundamentally sound coach. Since he has been with me at Maryland he has been instrumental in the recruitment of several players including Tom McMillen and John Lucas. He is one of the brightest young coaches in the nation today."

He is married to the former Ann Schopfer, a second year law student at the Maryland Law School.

TIM AUTRY

Delaware "Coach of the Year" last season, Autry's teams have compiled a 143-52 record for the last nine years. During the past three years as the coach at Wilmington High, Autry won 46 of 62 games, captured the conference championship in 1970-71 and the State championship last season. He was vice-president of the Coaches Association in Delaware and was selected to coach the first Delaware Senior All-Star game.

He is a graduate of Winston-Salem State College where he captained the football team in addition to playing basketball. Following graduation he continued graduate studies at North Carolina A&T. He coached at Frederick Douglas High in Elm City, N.C. for two years before moving to Trenton as coach at Jones High. While at Trenton his teams won two conference championships, gained him "Coach of the Year" honors in 1968-69 and won 61 of 83 games.

He says, "I am looking forward to working with coach Driesell and his staff. Maryland is a blue chip university and has a lot to offer young athletes and scholars. Maryland is nationally known both athletically and scholastically and I feel it is the ideal university for young scholar-athletes."

Driesell says of Autry, "I was very impressed with his record as a coach but I was even more impressed with him as an individual. He is very capable, knows his basketball and will be an excellent recruiter for Maryland. We are lucky to find a coach of his capability."

Autry, 34, is married to the former Shirley Langston of Kinston, N.C., who is a graduate of Fayetteville State.

CHARLIE BLANK—GRADUATE ASSISTANT

A distributive education major at Maryland, Charlie wants to go into teaching and coaching. A keen student of the game while starting for the Terrapins for two seasons, Blank is described by Driesell as a great coaching prospect.

One of the most unselfish players to play for Driesell at Maryland, he received several awards for his contribution to the team last season although he saw only limited game action.

He was a three sport captain in high school, he received all-state recognition in football and basketball as well as All-South Jersey honors in basketball.

JACK NEAL—STUDENT ASSISTANT

Expected to be of great assistance to the Maryland Basketball program is senior Jack Neal.

A tireless worker as a player last year, he never failed to give 100 percent in practice although he seldom saw game action. He is expected to give just such an effort in his current position.

Another player who wants to go into coaching after graduation, he feels that he will gain valuable experience and be of more help to the team as a coach than as a player.

He will handle scouting and practice duties for the varsity and junior varsity.

JOHN W. "JACK" ZANE
(Maryland '60)

Sports Information Director

Since assuming the position of SID in August of 1969 Jack Zane has been charged with publicizing the mushrooming Maryland athletic program.

With a nationally ranked basketball program and a fast improving football team, Maryland is now covered by daily and weekly papers with a circulation of over 5.4 million. In addition to newspaper coverage, Maryland has received extensive national magazine attention in both sports.

Before graduating from Maryland with a B.S. in journalism, Jack served for three years as a student assistant to Joe Blair (now Public Relations Director for the Washington Redskins). After receiving his degree he served for two years as a full time assistant to Blair before moving to George Washington where he held the SID position for six years.

Jack is a member of CoSida, the Football Writers and Basketball Writers of America, the Sports Reporters Association of Baltimore and ACC Sports Writers. He is also a member of the Touchdown Club of Washington and the Maryland chapter of Sigma Delta Chi.

A graduate of Southern High in Lothian, he is a native of Maryland and served four and a half years in the Navy before enrolling at the University.

He is married to the former Judy Allen of Fayetteville, W.Va., a graduate of the George Washington University.

RUSS POTTS
(Maryland '64)

Sports Promotions Director

Since returning to the University Russ Potts has been one of the main architects of the dynamic growth of Maryland athletics.

Charged with the promotion of the Maryland athletic program, Russ first attacked the problem of radio and television exposure for the Terps. From a humble beginning of one radio station he has now constructed one of the largest radio networks in the nation. This year's network lineup includes 36 stations which range from Charlottesville, Va. to Wellsboro, Pa. WBAL Baltimore and WMAL Washington give Maryland two of the strongest stations on the east coast.

Fifteen Maryland basketball games will be televised in the Washington-Baltimore area including two which will also be aired nationally and six that will be aired regionally. Maryland now boasts the most extensive home basketball television coverage of any school in the nation.

This year the University will also have the most elaborate college scoreboard system in the nation with magic message boards in both football and basketball. The scoreboard system was financed entirely by ad revenue.

Russ, a 1964 graduate of Maryland, was named to the Outstanding Young Men in America editon of 1966. He was the winner of two first place sportswriting awards while the sports editor of the Winchester (Va.) Star. A native of Winchester, Russ also served as the Director of the Shenandoah Apple Blossom Festival in 1969-70.

Russ is married to the former Emily Ann Strite. They have two daughters, Kristi, 4 and Katie, 2.

TOM FIELDS
(Maryland '42)

Director, Maryland Educational Foundation

One of the most important cogs in the Maryland Athletic Machine is the Maryland Educational Foundation, and its popular Executive Director, Tom Fields.

Tommy Fields is a familiar name in Maryland athletic annals. A former Terp track All-American, Tom returned to his alma mater to assume his present position as head of the growing foundation that supports Maryland athletics.

After two years at the helm, the foundation has grown to a membership in excess of 700 and an annual contribution figure in excess of $180,000. That's quite a significant step from $33,000 2 years ago.

Fields, a retired Colonel in the United States Marine Corps, joined the Corps in 1942. He compiled a brilliant military career, serving in combat in Guadalcanal, Vella Lavella, Bougainville, Iwo Jima, Korea, and Vietnam.

He was decorated for outstanding heroism at Iwo Jima, and holds a host of other medals and honors for serving in Korea and Vietnam.

A winner of the coveted 'Maryland Ring', given to the outstanding Maryland senior athlete. During his All-American running days in Terpland, Tom clocked the nation's best collegiate 1,000-yard time, and was the Southern Conference mile, two-mile, and cross-country champion, and ran on two Championship of America Relay teams in the Penn Relays.

'A Maryland Man' all the way, Tom is dedicated to bringing Maryland back on top.

To compete with the nation's premier football and basketball powers, the Foundation must continue to grow. Tom Fields is the man to insure that growth.

COLLEGE ATHLETE OF THE MONTH

LEN ELMORE, U. OF MARYLAND

Over the past decade sociologists have explained to us in stark detail the plight of blacks in America. Urban blacks, they tell us are poor; formal schooling is merely a legal obligation for kids whose most exacting trials take place in open-air classrooms, on asphalt, playing the "city game"—basketball.

Len Elmore, 6-9, 230-pound junior center at the University of Maryland, can't fit that facile stereotype. Elmore was born in the same New York City borough that nurtured Connie Hawkins, among others, but he didn't play a serious game of basketball until he was in the tenth grade. "I never lived in the ghetto," he says. "My father works for the Department of Sanitation; our neighborhood was middle income. There was never any question in my mind that sports took second place to education."

An honor student in junior high school, Elmore set his sights on a secondary education at Manhattan's Power Memorial, a Catholic high school with a prestigious reputation for basketball and scholarship. "I wanted Power Memorial for its academics," says Elmore. "I started playing basketball because I thought it would help my chances of getting in."

But there was unexpected feedback from playing basketball at Power. There was glamor, but there were responsibilities. The summer after his freshman year, Len was asked to work in the Police Athletic League's play-street program. Two summers later, Len was a play-street director. "A play-street," he says, "consists of one street, maybe two blocks long, closed off by the City to traffic between the hours of 12 to eight. It's for the whole community, not just the kids. The PAL donates arts-and-crafts equipment, athletic equipment and buses for trips. We used to take the kids to Rockaway Beach and Bear Mountain State Park—places where normally they couldn't go 'cause they didn't have that kind of money."

For the next two years at Power Memorial, Elmore starred both at basketball and academics, being selected for membership in the National Honor Society. So UCLA wanted him. The Knicks' Bill Bradley took him to dinner and talked to him about Princeton. The late Adam Clayton Powell recruited him for Georgetown. "I got this one letter from a school in Las Vegas," Len recalls. "They promised to sponsor me in any law school in the country and get me a $100,000 job with the Hughes Tool Company there."

That $100,000 offer had to be sweetened with the promise of law school. Even as far back as high school, Elmore had decided to enter the legal profession. "I plan on taking my degree back to the community," Len says now. "I plan to get enough money playing pro ball to set myself up with a law practice where I won't have to depend on legal fees in order to eat. You see," he adds, "blacks don't have a voice in the system, because the only language the system understands is legal language. And there aren't enough black lawyers."

In his freshman year at Maryland, Elmore first broke an ankle, then suffered a busted kneecap and a torn tendon. To relieve his depression, he signed on as a part-time tutor at a Washington, D.C. elementary school. In '71-72, as a sophomore center, a healthy Elmore established himself as a pro prospect, playing—along with Tom McMillen—a crucial role as Maryland reached the finals of the ACC tournament and won the NIT tournament in Madison Square Garden, beating along the way Jacksonville and Niagara. Tough under the boards according to Boston GM Red Auerbach: "Elmore was the workhorse of that team."

And when Elmore isn't on a basketball court, he's in the ghettoes. Working as a project leader for an organization of Maryland students called PACE, he's currently prodding the state and community to join forces to renovate the athletic field of a junior high school in Maryland Park, Maryland. "We're trying to start some interaction between the children and the community," he says. "So we went and talked to community people, including the kids who'd be involved. After we found out their objectives, we relayed them to the Maryland Parks and Planning Commission, asking them to join our coalition."

Next an "ecological day" was scheduled. There was music, a barbecue—while members of the local community and PACE removed the grass and garbage that littered the field.

Next year, Elmore says, he hopes to contribute more to the Maryland offense than in 1971. But he's already pulled out all the stops in the realms of scholarship and social conscience.

During the 1972-73 season the University of Maryland Terrapins will receive unprecedented coverage on both radio and television. A 36 station radio network will carry all of the season's action and follow the Terps through any year-end tournament play. The flagship station for Maryland Basketball will be WMAL in Washington. Mal Campbell, a recipient of numerous broadcasting honors, will handle the play by play.

A total of 15 games will be telecast in the Washington-Baltimore area. Two games will be shown on national television; N.C. State on January 14 and North Carolina on January 27. The State game will immediately preceed the Super Bowl.

Six games will be carried regionally with five of those listed as ACC games of the week.

The University of Maryland will have the most extensive coverage of home action in the nation.

UPI Coaches Poll

UCLA Unanimous Pick As Nation's Top Team

NEW YORK, March 13 (UPI)—UCLA, which raced through a 26-0 season, today became the unanimous choice of the United Press International board of coaches as the 1971-72 collegiate basketball champion.

The Bruins of coach Johnny Wooden, featuring an influx of sophomores in their starting lineup, put themselves on a par with past Wooden-coached teams when they became the only major college to finish the season undefeated.

North Carolina (23-4), which won the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament, was second in the final ratings with 279 points and Penn, the Ivy League champ, was third with 247 points.

Fourth place went to Louisville, which won its Missouri Valley conference in a playoff with Memphis State last week and at No. 5 was South Carolina, which finished its season at 22-4 and then opened the NCAA tourney with a 53-51 victory over Temple.

Final Rankings

The end of the season rankings are now complete. Unlike the many other rankings, THE BASKETBALL NEWS believes in waiting until all of the post-season competition is completed.

While UCLA is No. 1 comes as no surprise, the play of the Florida State U. basketball team in the post-season tournament earns the Seminoles the No. 2 spot. And, the Seminoles did earn it.

Coach Hugh Druham called his team inconsistant during the regular season. But, during the Seminoles' five tournament games they were consistant – consistantly good.

The Seminoles took conference champions from the Ohio Valley, the Big 10, the Southeastern and the Atlantic Coast before bowing to the mighty Bruins.

And. . .until 6-11 Lawrence McCray picked up his third foul and was benched with FSU leading UCLA, 19-14, there was the glimmering prospect that the Pacific-8 titlists might fall in an amazing upset.

FSU did deserve No. 2 and the season-long play of North Carolina, Pennsylvania, and Louisville earned those schools the next spot.

The post-season play also benefitted Maryland's young team, which rolled through the NIT after its rigorous ACC competition.

The Terps moved up to No. 6 in the final rankings with Long Beach St., BYU, Jacksonville and South Carolina completing the Top 10.

Walton Heads UPI All-America

United Press International's college basketball All-America team has a definite western flavor. The first team, announced yesterday, is headed by UCLA's 6-foot-11 sophomore center, Bill Walton.

Joining Walton on the first team were UCLA teammate Henry Bibby, a guard, and Long Beach State forward Ed Ratleff. Marguette's Jim Chones, a center, and guard Dwight Lamar of Southeastern Louisiana complete the team.

Virginia's Barry Parkhill made the second team along with Robert McAdoo of North Carolina and Tom Rikker of South Carolina. Maryland's Tom McMillen was a third-team choice and teammate Len Elmore and American University's Kermit Washington made the honorable mention list with Bill Chamberlain and Dennis Wuyick of North Carolina and Kevin Joyce of South Carolina.

Last season was the year that Maryland Basketball really emerged as one of the focuses of the national collegiate spotlight.

The Terrapins had received recognition during the previous season with several stunning upsets and an undefeated freshman team, but Maryland was still regarded as a curiosity rather than a power. No more.

Maryland's young team developed slowly throughout the year but, by the beginning of March, they were ready to prove themselves to the nation, taking four straight games to win the National Invitational Tournament Championship. In the final game against Niagara they became the first team to score 100 points in an NIT finale.

The Terrapins had just missed out on a bid to the NCAA Tournament, falling to a powerful North Carolina team by nine points in the finals of the Atlantic Coast Conference. Their performance in the NIT had proven, however, that there will be other NCAA appearances in Maryland's future.

The season's accomplishments were impressive indeed. The 27-5 record the Terps compiled was the best in the history of the school and the 27 victories were second only to NCAA champion UCLA. Maryland was one of only two schools to beat every team on its schedule at least once.

All five of Maryland's losses were on the road in the more-than-tough Atlantic Coast Conference. In tournament play, they captured eight of nine contests, winning the NIT and Maryland Invitational, losing only the finale of the ACC tournament.

All of this was accomplished against what was rated the tenth toughest schedule; in the nation (tougher than the schedule of any eventual member of the top 20). The Terps played a total of 11 games against teams which were ranked in the top ten at some time during last season and won eight of those games.

The statistical breakdown of the Maryland performance was just as impressive as the won-lost record.

Lefty Driesell has always stressed a quick, hard working defense as the backbone of his teams' play. The effort last year's squad put into building such a defense payed off in the tenth best defensive record in the nation. Playing in an offense minded league such as the ACC, and having nine games against top-flight competition in tournament play, this record must truly be classified as remarkable.

On offense, the Terps scored over 2400 points in their 32 games for a 76.4 ppg average. They outscored their opposition by an average of 10.6 points.

Tom McMillen easily broke Gene Shue's all-time single season scoring mark with 667 points and Jim O'Brien moved into the top 15. O'Brien, Maryland's leading scorer as a sophomore, is already in the top 15 for career scoring with a full season ahead of him.

One of the most impressive aspects of last season was Maryland's work on the boards. The Terrapins pulled down nearly 1400 rebounds to gain a 10.9 rebound per game advantage on their opposition. Len Elmore was the leading rebounder as he moved to the top of the Maryland all-time list with 351. McMillen was close behind moving into the fourth slot with 306.

Another area of concentration in a Driesell program is shooting accuracy and here again the '71-'72 Terps compiled an enviable record. From the floor, Bob Bodell led the way with a 59.8 percent figure. McMillen finished second in this category also as he connected on 55 percent of 428 attempts. Jap Trimble also finished above 50 percent as these three led the Terps to a 49.5 overall average.

From the charity stripe McMillen led the way with 81.7 percent of 241 attempts. O'Brien, Elmore, Bodell and Rich Porac all finished above 75 percent and the team wound up with an ACC record 74.6 percent mark.

Howard White led the way in assists with 93 with O'Brien finishing second with 78 and Bodell third with 68. Porac collected 66 although he saw less action in the year.

The team's play netted a host of school records including most wins, most games, best winning percentage, most points, most field goals, best FG percentage, most rebounds, and largest average and total attendance at home and combined home and away.

The 17,896 fans who saw the NIT semi-final made up the largest crowd ever to watch Maryland play and the 15,287 who crowded Cole Field House were the largest crowd in the history of the auditorium.

There is no doubt that 1971-72 was a year of tremendous success for Driesell and his team, a year their fans hope will be a prelude to many such performances by the Maryland Terrapins.

MARYLAND FOOTBALL

HEAD COACH JERRY CLAIBORNE

Claiborne said of his 1972 team:

"There is one thing you can say about our kids, they never quit. We are extremely proud of the way they responded to adversity during the season. Time and again they were behind and fought their way back.

The attitude and desire on this team was truly commendable but they lacked the mental toughness to be a great team. We made too many mistakes, especially in the first half, and this cost us several victories. Eliminating those mistakes is a matter of experience and mental discipline and we are sure that another year of winter program and spring and early fall practices will make us more mentally tough in the coming season."

Claiborne will have a wealth of talent returning from the 1972 squad as well as the possibility of adding several blue-chip prospects in next year's freshman class. In addition several transfers are expected to lend added depth after sitting out the '72 season to qualify for varisty competition.

The returning lettermen are especially deep at the skill positions. On defense, four juniors who saw extensive action in the secondary return. Bob Smith, Ken Schroy and Pat Ulam were all starters during the season and Joe Younge saw considerable playing time.

At linebacker all four men who saw more than limited action return. Up front, the top seven players from tackle to tackle are back including standouts Paul Vellano, Randy White, David Visaggio and Ken Scott.

At defensive end, Jim Flyzik and Rick Marquart both saw considerable action in 1972 but the positions remain open.

The Maryland defense made great defensive strides as last season went by. This year the Terrapins should have one of the top defenses in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

On offense, the primary weakness is the loss of four of five starters from the offensive line. Bart Purvis is the only returnee who started consistently. Four underclassmen did see considerable action in reserve roles and several of last year's freshmen showed great promise.

At quarterback, Claiborne is fortunate to have three exceptional candidates returning. Al Neville will be back after recovering from a broken collarbone suffered mid-way through last season. Bob Avellini will also return after proving he could lead the Terrapins effectively after taking over from Neville. Ben Kinard, a potent running threat from the position, will also add valuable depth.

At running back Louis Carter and Jamie Franklin proved that they are two speedsters who can run with the best during successful sophomore years. Richard Jennings, a 9.7 sprinter who saw action for the varsity as a freshman, will add depth. LeRoy Hughes is an effective blocker and solid runner at the fullback slot.

Frank Russell and Dan Bungori give Maryland two of the premier receivers in the ACC at what should be the most exciting position on the team. John Alkire and Don Weiss will be the leading candidates for the tight end position.

The Terrapins may be one or two blue-chippers from being a national power, but, after gaining more success in 1972 than in the previous two years combined, 1973 should be an enjoyable year for Maryland football fans.
